with Abraham and Isaac and Jacob in the kingdom of heaven." The speaker, after an eloquent introduction, dwelt at length upon the past history and the future mission of maintenance of peace and not to insist on Presbyterianism, and closed with a feeling reference to the death of Rev. Dr. William Adams, who had delivered the last prayer and pronounced the last benediction at the close of the first meeting of the alliance at Edinthe burgh in 1877.

EVENING SESSION. It was not until nearly 2 o'clock that the vast andience that packed the Academy of Music vacated that building, and subsequently the delegates assembled in Horticultural hall and organized a business session. The formal address of welcome was made by Rev. Dr. Wm. P. Breed. The late Rev. Dr. Baselle was originally selected to deliver the Beadle was originally selected to deliver the address of welcome, and upon his death Rev. H. A. Boardman was chosen. Dr. Board-man also died and Dr. Breed was then selected. In his address, Dr. Breed made a fitting allusion to this fact in welcoming the council, which he said collectively presented a "great crowd of witnesses, 30,000,000, yes, 40,000,000 of them in every land and in every clime."
